SILK IN CAMBODIA

SILK OF HIGH VALUE

Weaving and wearing silk is an expression of deeply-rooted cultural and social traditions in Cambodia. Silk is a prestigious fabric often worn by the King and Queen as well as the Cambodian royal families in their official ceremonies. Within the country, the number of weavers is estimated to be between 18,000 and 20,000, most of whom are concentrated in five areas: Takeo, Kandal, Kampong Cham, Prey Veng and the Northwest area. In these regions, weaving silk is often a parallel activity to farming that allows women to generate additional income.

Cambodian silk has increased its good reputation into the world arena for its various hand weaving techniques and quality, for its unique and beautiful yellow silk yarn and for its concentration of fair and ethical businesses dealing with rural producers or marginalized women.

The companies participating in the High Value Silk Project have been selected carefully by the project. They are committed to further develop their product portfolio and to expand exports. Cambodian craft producers look for direct business contacts with importers worldwide, offering them new sourcing opportunities and long-term partnership possibilities.

This catalogue was produced within the context of the High Value Silk Project of the Cambodia Export Diversification and Expansion Program (CEDEP I)

This is a project of the Royal Government of Cambodia led by the Ministry of Commerce, managed by the International Trade Centre (ITC) and funded under the Enhanced Integrated Framework

A woman with dark hair, wearing a bright pink long-sleeved sweater and a black and white checkered scarf, is seated and focused on her work. She is handling a piece of fabric with vibrant, multi-colored stripes (red, blue, green, yellow, and black). The background shows a wooden lattice structure and some household items on a shelf, suggesting a home-based workshop environment.
